Notice To Our Readers

We announced in our last issue that we would not publish a paper this week on account of the absence of Mr. and Mrs. D'Albertanson who have not yet (at the time of publication) returned from their trip to British Columbia to attend a convention. However we have been compelled to change our plans somewhat on account of a certain advertisement which had to appear this issue. On account of the facts that I am single handed and that I have had trouble with the Linotype and various other reasons I have been unable to put much news in the paper this week.

L. D'Albertanson Junior.

Threshing Machines Should Be Cleaned At Each Farm Before Leaving

Attention of threshermen throughout the province is called to the clauses in the noxious weed act which require them to clean their threshing machines before leaving one farm to go to another. The weed branch of the department of agriculture issues a special appeal to owners and operators of threshing machines to see that their machines are properly cleaned before leaving the farm on which they are operating, and also to see that tight bottoms are used on bundle racks, and that these are swept off before leaving for another farm. Weeds have come to be a serious menace in many parts of the province, and threshermen are asked for their earnest cooperation in efforts at eradication. Farmers, too, are asked to insist that threshermen clean their machines. It is impossible for the provincial government to send about inspectors to all points where threshing machines are in operation, and the threshermen and farmers themselves are urged to realize their responsibilities in this matter.

Unemployment

Prospects for less unemployment during the coming fall and winter are much brighter than for some time. With the settlement of the coal strike which is expected to come about shortly, will come approximately 100 per cent employment in the mines, which will take care of about 1500 men over and above the usual number employed in view of the anticipated rush for coal to make up depleted stocks. A good deal of labor is being absorbed by the harvest fields this year. The commencement of the big refinery of the Imperial Oil Company in Calgary, will also absorb a large number of men.
As you sow you shall reap

Ninth Fortnightly Crop Report

Harvesting of Alberta's crop is proceeding for the most part, under ideal weather conditions, although rain interfered to a certain extent in some districts. Practically all of the rye has been cut and from 50 to 75 per cent of the wheat. Harvesting of this crop will be completed by September 15th. A great deal of the oats is being cut for feed. Cutting of the second crop of alfalfa in the southern part of the province is practically completed, and the yield has been fairly good.
Since the last report was issued by the department, heavy showers of rain have occurred in several districts, particularly the central and northern areas. These rains threatened for a time to delay the ripening of the later grain to a point where danger from frost was likely. For the most part, however, the weather has been clear and warm, and the damage from frost, it is anticipated, will be very small.
No further grain yields will be made until some of the actual threshing returns have been received by the department. The indications are that the yields will average up somewhat better than was anticipated earlier in the season. In the central and northern districts particularly late rains have improved the grain to such an extent that estimates of yields are now more optimistic. The feed situation has also been considerably improved.
Flax acreage reported in the province this year is very small. The acreage of oats threshed will be reduced through the fact that much of the damage from hail has been slight over the province as a whole, this season. The most serious storm was that one which occurred a week ago, in the territory from Wetaskiwin toward Wainwright. Several farms in this territory on a strip 3 miles wide suffered losses estimated at from 50 to 75 per cent of the crop.

Health Of Dairy Cattle

How it can be attained and also maintained.
If dairymen in particular and farmers generally, would know how to have healthy cattle, they should lose no time in sending to the Publications Branch, Ottawa, for a copy of recently issued Pamphlet No. 16 of the Department of Agriculture, prepared under the immediate supervision of the Veterinary Director General. It contains 85 definite questions and 85 explicit answers, couched in plain, straightforward language, regarding the Accredited Herd system and identification, prevention and eradication of tuberclosis; also relative to the requirements of and provision for official inspecting and testing. The primary principle for the prevention of tuberclosis, or for that matter, any other disease of livestock is cleanliness, accompanied by free ventilation and plenty of light; and the first element of sanitation is cleanliness. That this is a prime consideration is indicated by the statement that the officially appointed inspector will not undertake to test a herd for tuberclosis until he is assured by personal observation that the premises are clean and sanitary. Besides details of the provisions made for Government testing, explanations are given in the question and answer form regarding a variety of matters, including municipal testing and the classification of dairies, testing by private practitioners with departmentally supplied tuberculin, and the ways in which swine and poultry are liable to become infected with tuberclosis.
It's peculiar how proud a man is of himself and how he pats himself on the back for having a little backbone, after the fear that some of his friends will jump all over him for daring to assert himself.
Making art work pay is a work of art.

New Land Map And Lists Of Lands For Sale Now Available

A new edition of the Northern Alberta Land Map just issued by the Natural Resources Intelligence Branch of the Department of the Interior shows the location of all Dominion lands available for entry. A new feature added to the current issue gives similar information regarding those quartersections of privately owned unoccupied and uncultivated lands that are for sale.
With the two classes of information now available in map form the prospective settler will have a guide to opportunities for either homesteading or purchasing. If favorable to the latter plan of settlement, lists containing names and addresses of owners of unoccupied farms in any particular district throughout the province may be obtained in addition to the map.
These lists contain information regarding the price at which the owner would be willing to sell or lease his land, terms of payment that would prove acceptable, acreage suitable for cultivation, nature of soil, value of buildings and distance from a railway.
He was an optimistic soul and a sportsman. His pals, whom he infected with enthusiasm, followed his tips blindly, with more often than not disastrous results.
"See what you've done!" wailed one of his friends, after a race. "And you told me I could put my shirt on that horse."
"And did you?"
"Yes—worse luck."
"Well, then," replied the optimistic sportsman, "see the money you'll save on laundry bills!"
All are not saints that go to church

More About Canadian Schools

PUBLIC SCHOOLS IN PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND

The general supervision of education is given by the law to a provincial board, composed of the members of the executive council (i.e., the Provincial Government), the principal of the Prince of Wales College, and the chief superintendent of education, who acts as secretary. The superintendent is appointed by the lieutenant-governor in council, and duly qualified inspectors, who have to visit each district half-yearly, by the board of education. A normal school is now amalgamated with Prince of Wales College. The principal and assistants of the college and normal school are appointed by lieutenant-governor in council. The grades are primary, advanced, and high schools. They are free to all children between five and sixteen years, and non-sectarian. Teachers are required to open the schools with the reading of the Holy Scriptures by children without comment or explanation, but no children are required to attend if their parents or guardians object to this reading. Teachers must hold a license from the board of education—attendance at one term of the provincial training school being one of the qualifications. The salaries are provided for by a provincial grant, and by district assessment when it is necessary to increase the former allowance. All other expenditures are met by local or district assessment, and loans for seven years may be raised to pay the cost of new school-houses. At the annual school meeting of a district three trustees are elected for three years—one member retiring each year. No teacher in active employment can act as trustee. In the city of Charlottetown, and town of Summerside, the board of trustees consists of seven members, of whom the lieutenant-governor in council appoints four, and the council of each place appoints three—all of whom hold office during pleasure. All the boards of trustees appoint a clerk or secretary, who acts also as treasurer or accountant. All accounts and payments are duly audited—two auditors being appointed by the councils of Charlottetown and Summerside, and one elected by a school district in other cases. The duties of trustees are the same as those in Ontario and other provinces.

teaching days in the year, and has power to arrange for the printing and publication of text books, etc., and for their free distribution to the pupils of the public schools.

The lieutenant-governor in council appoints and fixes the salaries of inspectors, normal and model school teachers and other officials of the department.

An advisory board of twelve members—partly appointed by the lieutenant-governor in council and partly elected by the public and high school teachers and school inspectors—determines the qualifications of teachers and inspectors, prescribes forms of religious exercises, makes regulations for the plans, equipment and ventilation of school houses, authorizes text-books and books of reference, appoints examiners and performs other important duties.

Inspectors cannot act as teachers or as trustees of a public or high school. All education has been free and undenominational since 1890, before that time the Roman Catholics had denominational schools. In rural school districts a child may enter school at the age of five, and in cities, towns, and villages at the age of six, and all children between the ages of five and sixteen or six and sixteen as the case may be, are counted as being of school age. All children between the ages of seven and fourteen years are required to attend school regularly. Religious exercises are conducted according to the regulations of the advisory board but children whose parents object need not remain. Provision is made for religious teaching between the hours of half-past three and four o'clock in the afternoon, if authorized by the school trustees in accordance with the act.

The affairs of rural school districts are managed by a board of three trustees, each of whom serves for three years, one retiring each year, while in cities, towns and villages which are divided into wards, two trustees are elected for each ward for a period of two years, one retiring each year.

The public schools are supported by grants from the legislature supplementing the interest on the endowment created by the sale of public set apart for school purposes by the dominion government, by grants from a general fund created by a tax on the whole municipality and by a special tax levied on the ratepayers of the districts under the conditions provided in the law. The taxes are levied by the municipal council on the requisition of the trustees. Secondary schools for more advanced education are maintained in nearly all the school districts which embrace a city, town or village within their limits. Normal schools have been established at four centres and provision is made for annual elementary normal courses at two other centres. All teachers must regulations of the advisory board; professional certificates are graded as third class, second class or first class. The second class professional, which is the lowest grade of permanent license, requires attendance at a normal school for one year, and applicants for admission must hold second class non professional certificates provincial institution under the direction of a board of governors appointed by the lieutenant-governor in council. A council in which the various colleges, affiliated with the university, the graduates of the university and the provincial government have representation, has charge of the academic work. Provision is made for appeal to the board of governors from any decision of the council. Instruction is provided in medicine, engineering, arts, pharmacy, etc., and the provincial college of agriculture is affiliated with the university.

CHAPTER VII

THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

In this province the minister of education and the other members of the executive council (i.e. the Provincial Government) constitute a council of public instruction. The government appoints a superintendent of education who is also secretary of the council. The schools are free and undenominational, but it is provided that "the highest morality shall be inculcated" and the Lord's prayer may be used at the opening or closing. A provincial board of examiners grants certificates to teachers, which must always be signed by the superintendent. The council appoints two or more qualified inspectors. Schools are divided into common, graded, and high schools. Two provincial normal schools have been established, one at Vancouver, and the other at Victoria. In each rural district there is a board of three trustees elected by the householders and freeholders, and their wives. In municipal districts there is a board of seven to three trustees, according to the number of pupils, elected by duly qualified electors. To each board is attached a secretary-treasurer to collect and disburse moneys for school purposes. Schools are supported entirely by the government in rural "assisted" districts.

In city and rural municipalities the salaries for teachers and all other expenses incurred by the trustees are borne and paid by the municipal corporations. The government pays a grant of from $460 to $580 a year, based on the number of teachers employed, to each city. Every child from seven to twelve must attend some school or be otherwise educated for six months in every year.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS IN ALBERTA AND SASKATCHEWAN

Prior to the establishment of the provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan, the Northwest Territories of Canada out of which these provinces were formed had already constitutionally reached the status of responsible government and had developed a very creditable system of education. The influence of this common parentage is still quite evident, notwithstanding the divergence which has inevitably occurred during the brief history of these provinces.

All small schools more or less primitive with respect both to buildings and courses of study followed closely in the wake of settlement, a Council of Public Instruction was organized and to it was entrusted the administration and development of these schools. As population increased and appointed councils gave place to representative legislative assemblies, the council grew into a department of territorial government known as the department of education. Meantime the prescribed courses of studies, which originally attempted to provide only for the mere essentials of a public school education, were gradually extended both in regard to the number and scope of the subjects of instruction.

The system of education in both provinces is based on the same statutes, but statutory amendments and departmental regulations passed since the provinces were formed tend to give to each its distinctive characteristics.

The Alberta Act and The Saskatchewan Act—which brought into existence the sister provinces, came into force on September 1st 1905 and provide that section 93 of the British North America Act, which refers to education, shall apply to these provinces, with some slight changes to meet the existing conditions. The rights granted to the people of this territory by chapters 29 and 30 of the Northwest Territories ordinances of 1901, with respect to separate schools and religious instruction in the schools, are thus protected and preserved.

Hunter's Remarkable Trophy

Head of Bighorn or Rocky Mountain Sheep secured last October near Lake Louise, Alberta. This is one of the finest and largest heads ever secured.

The Western provinces of Canada are famous as resorts of big game. Many kinds are to be found, but amongst the most sought are bighorn or Rocky Mountain sheep. The hunters that get a bighorn procure a handsome trophy in the horns. It is said that the biggest and best bighorn heads are to be found in the Rockies. Last October a party of hunters under the leadership of James Simpson, well known Banff guide and hunting outfitter started out from Lake Louise. They hunted through Clearwater, Sheep Creek, and the Saskatchewan River. Many bighorn and wild goats were seen, and amongst the trophies secured was a head with a base 16 inches wide, a left horn 47 1/2 inches, and a right horn 49 inches. The animal weighed 350 lbs. There were twelve bighorn in the group from which this remarkable specimen was taken, and two of the others looked just as large.

Bighorn are very much afraid of men, and they make their haunts in the most secluded places. Some good hunting districts are the southern parts of British Columbia, East Kootenay Mountains, Okanagan district, Valley of the Bridge and Chilcotin Rivers, the Cassiar country. East Kootenay is one of the most favored districts, and hunters set out from Golden, Invermere, Michel, Fernie and Cranbrook, all of which are on the C. P. R.

CANADIAN LEADERS URGE OPEN GATE TO WORTHY IMMIGRANTS

Farm buildings and fuel supply of a Russian settler in southern Manitoba

In pre-war days immigration flowed toward America from the four ends of the earth. This tide was dammed by the war and its resumption retarded by after-war conditions. Canada erected legislative barriers as to quantity, quality and kind.

Canadian leaders now declare that so far as Canada is concerned, the barriers must be raised and immigration encouraged. Lord Shaughnessy, under whose administration as its president, the Canadian Pacific Railway performed miracles of colonization and development for Canada, says: "We must have immigration. We have had very little since 1914. On the contrary, I am afraid we have lost somewhat. Then, after the war, the natural feeling that grew out of the war encouraged the placing of restrictions on immigration that have been most disastrous in their results. We must have settlers from all over the world, not artisans, but men who will go out on our land, to our forests and to our fisheries and help to develop these resources. There must be an insistent demand upon Parliament to pass legislation that will open the doors to them to a reasonable extent and will permit them to come in."

No man in Canada knows better than Lord Shaughnessy what the immigrants of various countries have contributed to the Dominion's wealth and welfare. There are thriving colonies of Ukrainians, Poles, Hungarians, Swiss, Dutch, Scandinavians and Welsh, in addition to many of these nationalities that have been merged into mixed communities. Between 1900 and 1915, Canada absorbed 256,942 immigrants from the Central Powers and less than 100 have come in during the succeeding years. Canada realizes the value of worthy immigrants, no matter whence their origin, and the first steps are being taken to open her gates to all such.

Don't Smile At These

On their return home from the box social, Mrs Smith turned to her husband with a look of curiosity on her face.

"John, dear," she asked, "whatever made you tell the Thompsons that you married me for my voice, when you know I cannot sing a note?"

John was a tactful man as a rule, but this time he tripped.

"Well, darling," he replied, soothingly, "I had to give some reason, and that was the only one I could think of at the moment."

To remove rust from metal, take a small quantity of light garden soil, sift it to free it from grit, mix with a little coal oil, and rub the metal well.

Two cockneys were watching a ladies football match, and were discussing the names of the various players.

Said one: "See that tall girl at halfback, that's Eva Stone."

"Eva Stone, is it," replied the other
"well she's big enough to 'eave a 'ouse but I like that fat goal keeper, what's
'er name?"

"Ida Reed," came the reply.
"Crikey!" said the other, "She's fat enough to 'ide the whole goal."

An American traveller was being shown over Warwick Castle.

An old guide describing eloquently, and at length the beauty spots of the old ruins."

At last they came to a fine old tower.

"This ere tower," explained the guide expressively, "goes back to William the Conqueror."

The American looked at it critically and carefully for a moment and then asked.

"Goes back to William the Conqueror? Why, whats the matter with it??
Ain't it satisfactory."

THE BOY KNEW

"I am so sorry, Mr Portly," apologized the boarding house keeper,
"but I have no cheese in the house."

"Oh, pray do not mention it, my good Mrs Phipps," said the genial old boy. "I am sure—"

His little compliment was cut short by the small son of his hostess, at his side, bearing a piece of cheese upon a plate.

"Well, now, that is very kind of you, little man," he said, as the child stood there watching him swallow the tit-bit. "You knew more than your mother that time. Where did you find that cheese?"

The youngster intently watched these last morsel disappear before he answered.

"I found it in the rat trap!"

Wedgewood: "And they still be witch men even in the year 1922."

Soph: "Lend me five dollars, old man, and I'll be everlastingly indebted to you."

Fresh: "Yes, that's what I am afraid of."

She: "You don't love me as much as you used to do."

He: "Yes I do, my dear, but I have exhausted my vocabulary."

Mamma: "Now, Teddie, wouldn't you like to be a banker like Uncle Jim when you grow up?"

Teddie: "Well, mummie, couldn't
I be a banker without being like Uncle
Jim."
